

Michael Fogel

Chief Leadership Coach

Michael Fogel is the Chief Leadership Coach at On Trac. He works with managing partners, and practice group and industry group leaders supporting them in becoming more effective as visionary leaders.

Experience

He has been a lawyer and a municipal and superior court judge in California. Michael has been a Senior Instructor in the Conflict Resolution Certificate Program at the Justice Institute since 1987 where he also develops and teaches advanced course curriculum.

Michael teaches in several post-graduate executive programs and presents in-house senior management and executive leadership programs in many private and public sector corporations and organizations.

Since 1989, Michael has been working with Canadian federally appointed judges through his association with the NJI (National Judicial Institute) and the CIAJ (Canadian Institute for the Administration of Justice). He has also worked with judges in other parts of the world; U.S., Israel, New Zealand and Uganda.

Michael enjoys the challenge of working with organizations and institutions that are involved in significant change and/or are engaged in processes for transforming corporate culture and systems.
